in our market were distributing stocks on the London mart. The plan of-campaign of the local bulls, of giving first this stock and then that to a higher range, expecting the market to follow, as evidenced yesterday afternoon in the rise in Southern Pacific, was resumed again immediately after the opening, but this time they went back into the old market leaders, Union Pacific and St. Paul, as the Street is more willing to It was very plain to the observer that the Harriman interests were hard at work at the jack-screws, holding the market by main force and jacking it up a fraction now and then, keeping things headed toward the upper currents, in anticipation of the needed assistance to the flotation of the Union Pacific's financial plan. The amount of Union Pacific bonds that are to be marketed is $50,000,000, now and $50,000,000 later, and they are to bear interest at 4 per cent. The success of this hundred millions depends largely on a bull market, although the Harriman following is perhaps strong enough to take care of this matter themselves.

However, one cannot find a single confollow in these than in minor shares.

enough to take care of this matter themselves.

However, one cannot find a single condition on which to support a bull movement, other than that of manipulation Business is dull; railroad earnings continue to the bad, and there is no sign of improvement, this side of a crop movement. Politics are badly mixed. The hand of Harriman is at the helm, and it is capable of doing many things. It may keep on the advance, although the consansus of opinion on the Street is that the market is toppy, and that it should go the other way.

Should, ought to, would better, natural, ard all such terms expressing the effect of natural conditions are lost when Harriman is at the helm. Room traders are inclined to follow the lead of the magnate, although watchful and unusually accompaning orders with stop-loss or take profit instructions.

On the upturn of a point to a little bette- in the leaders, St. Paul, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, and Reading, the market became very dull, and passed into the afternoon rather tired, but still steady.

Entering the afternoon and well into

of the morning.

The only development was a reported alliance between Harriman and Gould. The morning papers contained a summary of the needs of Mr. Gould's varmary of the needs of Mr. Gould's various roads, and wondered where the millions were coming from. It would seem that Mr. Gould, who has been going it very much alone, since Mr. Sage's death, had made an alliance that will be able to raise the needed money for the Gould roads, unless the expense of the Harriman combine should be too heavy.

The market acted tired, as to activity, but firm as to prices.

In the closing hour the market became a just bit more active and there was a slight reaction in prices. Within fifteen minutes of the close it looked very much as if there might be a reaction to the loss of the gain, but in the last few minutes the market stiffened up again and made a firm close. The industrials and rails were nearly all firmer and the tone was certainly one of strength.

teenth Convention Tomorrow.

The Washington diocese of the Epis copal Church will convene for its thir-teenth annual session at St. Paul's Church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

A dozen of these have been before the public for the past few weeks, and are regarded as formidable candidates, each having an enthusiastic following, al-though the candidates themselves are letting the honor seek them, rather than seeking the honor. It is thought that the convention, after preliminary organization, may go at once into the business of electing a bishop. Among the eligibles for the bishopric, whose claims are being vigorously advanced by their friends, are:

The Rt. Rev. Charles Henry Brent, present bishop of the Philippines.

The Rev. Dr. Mann, pastor of Trinity Church, Boston.

ty Church, Boston.
Bishop Griswold, of Salina, Kan.
The Rev. Paul Matthews, of Cleve-land, Ohio.
The Rev. Dr. W. T. Manning, assist-ant rector of old Trinity Church, New

The latter, however, has been chosen o succeed the late Rev. Dr. Dix, recor of Trinity.

The Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim who, as chairman of the standing committee, will preside over the convention one of the local eligibles. Others are the ole, 101. Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, pastor of St. Paul's; he Rev. Dr. C. Ernest Smith, Paul's; 'he Rev. Dr. C. Ernest Smith, iector of St. Thomas'; the Rev. Dr. George C. Bratenahl, pastor of St. Alban's, and the Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith, pastor of St. John's.

The convention opens tomorrow with the communion, the Kev. Dr. McKim being celebrant, with Dr. Hard'ng, Archdeacons Williams, Graham, and La Roche, and the Rev. Arthur S. Johns assisting.

The first act of the convention will be the election of a permanent chairman, who in turn will name secretaries. The committees on credentials will be named and as soon as they report upon the seating of the cleary and lay delegates, the important work of the convention will be begun. Reports of officers of the discess and the nominations of standing committees and deputies to the general convention will be among the in-portant transactions. Officers are Sales were as frequent, but, owing to heavy receipts and only a fair demand, prices were unsettled in all departments. In most cases the figures of yesterday were quoted as an average. TRENTON, N. J., May 5 - The Repub lican State convention was called here today. The fight over the delegates-atlarge has been settled, and the "Big Four" to Chicago will consist of Gov-ernor Fort, Senators Briggs and Kean, and State Senator David Baird. Former Governor Murphy, chairman of the State committee, may carry his fight for "Big Four" honors to the convention floor, but he will be defeated if he Former Attorney General Griggs, also an aspirant, is no longer in the running The convention is likely to send an uninstructed delegation to Chicago.

Former United States Senator Dry den, chairman of the convention, indirectly gave a boost to the Taft boom, in referring to the War Secretary as the most probable candidate. He also refour-story building containing twenty ferred to the Vice Presidential boom for Governor Fort, Discussing candidates he

> "The country would have a safe, wise, and able President if the choice were to fall upon that distinguished gentleman whom the American people have already elevated to the Vice Presidency, Mr. Fairbanks-or upon that experienced Mr. Fairbanks—or upon that experienced legislator whom the House of Representatives have twice elected to a position of influence and power second in this Republic only to that of the President himself, Mr. Cannon, or upon those eminent sons of our neighboring States. Mr. Hughes, or Mr. Knox, or upon that brave and brilliant S-nator from Ohio, Mr. Foraker.

> "But if, as it now seems probable, and as countiess numbers of Republications."

"But if, as it now seems probable, and as countless numbers of Republicans hope, the mantie of McKinley and Roosevelt shall fall upon the ample shoulders of our great War Secretary, Mr. Taft, and his nomination shall be ratified at the polls in November, as I doubt not it would be, then the country will have a President courageous, progressive, yet conservative in judgment, diplomatic, learned in the law, effective in execution, wise and just in administration—in a word, a President who in every sense rises to the dignity and greatness of the American Republic itself.

"If, in addition, the national convenit did in 1896, when it nominated Hobart for Vice President-Hobart whose memory is dear to every Jerseymanand nominate for second place on the national ticket of 1908 a distinguished son of New Jersey, then will our peo-ple accept the honor with a gratitude, commendation and dignity becoming so mportant an event Important an event."

Roosevelt's and Taft's names were loudly cheered when mentioned in Dryden's speech; no cheers for Knox, Fairbanks, or Carnon.
At 1:25 p. m. the convention took a recess until 3 p. m. No action had up to that time been taken on delegates.
